MYRON W. ROBINSON,
Past Commander Post 9, Department of Conn.
Surgeon, Soldiers Home, Noroton.

COMRADE A. HOMER BYINGTON, though his military service was brief, it was none the less creditable and entitles him to membership in our order.

At the breaking out of the Rebellion he was in the City of Washington, and was among the first to volunteer for the protection of the Capital before Northern troops could be brought there. He joined the Washington Clay Guards, an organization from among the loyal residents and officeholders of the city, mustered into service for the protection of Government property and lives. They served till large bodies of troops began to arrive, when they were given honorable discharges.

It was, however, as a civilian at the front, that Comrade Byington did his best service to the cause of the country, far in excess of anything he might have accomplished as a soldier in the ranks. As Chief Correspondent in the field, of the New York Tribune, the leading Administration organ of the day, his duties were arduous and exacting, and very important in a national sense. Among many important acts to his credit might be mentioned the fact that it was he who first gave the news of the opening battle of Gettysburg to President Lincoln, and the War Department, which had been cut off from telegraphic communication with the Army.

Comrade Byington, as the representative of his paper, had free range of camps, battlefields and hospitals, consequently was in position to be of great service to our boys at the front, and in order to afford him more authority in that direction, Governor Buckingham commissioned him as Commissary General on his staff. Comrade Byington was never happier than when doing some kind act for a sick or wounded soldier, or using his influence for their advancement. Many a Norwalk comrade has reason to hold him in grateful remembrance.

It was in Comrade Byington's Hall in the Gazette Building, that Buckingham Post had its birth, and in his paper, the Norwalk Gazette, the Post always had an advocate and friend. His intense loyalty to the cause we represented, ever made him the friend of the Union Soldier in war and in peace.

After the war, the 17th Connecticut Regiment Veterans made him an honorary member of their association and presented him with a handsome gold badge, set with diamonds, in recognition of his services to them in the field.

He has recently returned home after an absence of ten years abroad, as United States Consul at Naples, Italy, and now in the 82d year of his age remains an honored member of the Post in good standing.

HISTORICAL SKETCH

The early history of the Grand Army of the Republic in Norwalk is somewhat obscure; those surviving who took part in the first attempt at organization differing somewhat in their recollection of the matter; but, as near as can be ascertained from the records which have been preserved, quite early in the year 1867, less than a year after the foundation of the Order in Illinois, a number of ex-soldiers of Norwalk applied for a Charter to organize a Post, which being granted, ten comrades assembled in the sanctum of the NORWALK GAZETTE, and organized what was known as Post No. 2, District of Housatonic, Department of Connecticut, G. A. R., and elected James L. Ambler as its first Commander. The Post subsequently established its headquarters in the Sons of Temperance Hall, Gazette Building, and increased in membership to some fifty or more.

At that time the State was divided into four districts, one for each Congressional District, with District Commanders. Gen. Wm. H. Noble, of Bridgeport, was the first Commander of this District. Subsequently the district sub-division of the Order was abandoned, leaving as at present, the Post as the unit, Departments representing States, and one National organization.

It appears, for some reason not shown, that the name of this Post was, soon after its organization, changed to No. 12, District of the Housatonic, and continued in existence during the years 1867-68, but was disbanded early in 1869, a fate which befell nearly every Post in the State at that time, for want of support.

It was the custom at that period to elect officers semi-annually, and the following comrades served as Commanders of the Post: James L. Ambler, Charles F. Loomis, Joseph P. Crossman and William A. Kellogg, all afterwards becoming members of Buckingham Post. The two former have since served as Commanders by election, and the two latter were reinstated to the honors of Past Post Commanders in this Department, by vote of the Encampment at Meriden, in February, 1891.

The first Memorial Day services, and the decoration of soldiers' graves, in accordance with the original order of General Logan, were conducted by this Post in May, 1868; and, according to the report of the NORWALK GAZETTE (then the only paper published in Norwalk, and which gave a full list of all the graves decorated), there were but two in St. Paul's churchyard, three in St. Mary's, and fourteen in Union Cemetery; whereas eight are now decorated in St. Paul's, 56 in St. Mary's, 133 in Union Cemetery and 74 in the new Riverside Cemetery, an increase of 244 since the first Decoration Day.

During the decade from 1870 to 1880, no further attempts at organization appear to have been made, but in the NORWALK GAZETTE of February 3rd, 1880, the following call appeared:

NOTICE.

"All old soldiers and sailors of the late war, residents of Norwalk, who may be desirous of forming a Post of G. A. R., at Norwalk Bridge, are requested to meet with the following comrades, at the GAZETTE office, on Wednesday evening, February 4th, 1880. Signed, R. L. Ells, Wm. A. Kellogg, Jere. B. Rusco, C. C. Platt, Edwin Northrop, Geo. W. Smith, Thomas H. Gibson, Jesse Pollard, B. S. Keith, Fletcher Pierce, Frank Pollard, Wm. B. Newcomb, George H. Raymond, Jos. P. Crossman and James L. Ambler."

In response to this call, thirteen comrades met and effected a temporary organization. They were encouraged in their efforts to organize a Post by the presence of a delegation from Douglas Fowler Post, No. 48, of South Norwalk, which had been organized a short time previous. This meeting resulted in the appointment of a committee to perfect arrangements, for organization, and was followed by the organization of the present Post, February 25, 1880, in the hall of Concord Division, Sons of Temperance, in the Gazette Building. Nineteen comrades were mustered into the G. A. R. in the prescribed form, by Senior Vice-Dept. Commander A. B. Beers, of Bridgeport, and Commander Bradley S. Keith, with the other officers-elect, were duly installed.

It was stated by Past Department Commander Charles E. Fowler, who was present, that as the original Norwalk Post had no other name but No. 12, which had not since been appropriated by any other Post of the Department, this Post could adopt that number, with a name. It was accordingly voted to take the "No. 12," and name the Post in honor of our great and noble war Governor "Buckingham."

For two or three years after organization, the Post, in common with many others, had a hard struggle for existence, and there were many times when it seemed on the verge of following its predecessor. But changes had taken place in the character and management of the Order, and it gradually becoming known to the veterans that it was entirely without politics as an organization, together with the growing spirit of comradeship and bond of interest which time alone could produce, membership began to increase, and soon placed the Post on a firm footing. For several years it increased very regularly in numbers and character of its membership, until it took rank among the first in the State.

After organization, the Post maintained headquarters in Sons of Temperance Hall, Gazette Building, until October 1, 1882, when it removed to rooms in the Dann Building, No. 40 Wall Street. It remained there till March 26, 1884, when change was made to rooms on the second floor of Lockwood's Hall building. Here the Post remained about five months, when lease was taken of the large and well-appointed hall on Wall Street known as the "Athenaeum," the name being changed to Grand Army Hall. The Post held its first meeting in this hall November 12, 1884. Here the Post thrived and grew until a very large percentage of the old soldiers and sailors of Norwalk were taken into membership. During the nearly seventeen years the Post occupied these headquarters, the most important events in its history occurred. Many enjoyable entertainments were given and associations formed which will remain pleasant memories through life.

During the term of James Schofield as Commander, in 1886, the Post was fully uniformed with coats and caps, and the following year purchased a full stand of colors, making a fine appearance on parade.

A committee of the Post was appointed October 12, 1887, looking to the organization of a Women's Relief Corps. It was organized as "Buckingham W. R. C., No. 30," December 19, 1887, and has ever since remained in a flourishing condition as a valuable auxiliary to the Post.

A committee was appointed December 28, 1887, to take into consideration the organization of a Camp of Sons of Veterans, resulting in the organization, on February 15, 1888, of what was known as "O. S. Ferry Camp, Sons of Veterans." The Camp continued in existence, however, only a few years.

At the National Encampment of 1887, Comrade Edward Anderson of this Post, was elected Chaplain-in-Chief, and his installation to office took place November 29, 1887. It was a red-letter day for Norwalk, there being probably the largest gathering in town ever witnessed here. Several brass bands and innumerable drum corps were in attendance, and there was by far the largest parade of G. A. R. Posts and military companies ever seen in Norwalk. The Governor, P. C. Lounsbury, and staff, with the General of the State Militia and staff, were in attendance. The ceremonies took place in the State Armory, and Mayor Morgan G. Bulkley, of Hartford, was the installing officer. An elaborate collation was served to the visiting guests and comrades, in Lockwood's and G. A. R. Halls, and in the evening a fine concert was given in the Opera House. Autograph letters of regret were received by Chaplain Anderson from Ex-President Rutherford B. Hayes, Gen. William T. Sherman and Major-Gen. J. M. Schofield, and now form part of the Post records.

General Darius N. Couch, a prominent Corps Commander of the Army, became a resident of Norwalk after the war, and although never becoming a member of the Post—not wishing to sever connection with his home Post in Taunton, Mass.—he frequently met with the Post and took part in all its public functions. Mrs. Couch took an active interest in the work of the Woman's Relief Corps, and was its first president. General Couch died February 12, 1897, the Post attending his funeral in St Paul's Church in a body, and a guard of honor accompanied his remains to Taunton, Mass., where the interment took place.

The Post has held two successful Fairs, the first in the Opera House, October 8 to 11, 1884, from which was realized a good sum, forming the nucleus of the Post Relief Fund. The second Fair was held in the State Armory, in connection with Company "F" of the State Guard, February 18 to 23, 1889, and was very successful, netting a sum sufficient to erect the Post monument in Riverside Cemetery.

A finely located plot in Riverside Cemetery was deeded to the Post for the free burial of deceased soldiers and sailors of Norwalk, on which the Post erected a handsome monument, dedicated with appropriate ceremonies, in the presence of a large gathering, Memorial Day, 1889. Indicative of the character of the monument, the Commander in his address said:

"It was the wish of the Post that the monument was not to be of an elaborate or expensive character, but such as would honor the hallowed spot, and mark it for future generations as the resting place of those who fought to save the Union in its hour of peril. But the memorial which we to-day dedicate is something even more than in honor of our dead comrades. In the natural course of events, those solid blocks of granite will stand for ages—even long after the statue which surmounts them—and to the future generations, to whom the Grand Army of the Republic is unknown, or but a faint and distant memory, and when this cemetery shall have become a beautiful city of the dead, the inscription on yonder stone will point to the fact that in the year of our Lord 1889, there existed in the town of Norwalk, a relic of the great War of the Rebellion, known as Buckingham Post No. 12, Department of Connecticut Grand Army of the Republic. The monument is therefore a memorial of the Post."

The Post has also procured State headstones for the graves of all deceased soldiers and sailors, not otherwise provided for, when in conformity with the wishes of relatives.

During the third Memorial Day services held by the Post in 1882, in the First Church, an incident occurred worthy of record. Rev. William H. Thomas, then pastor of the Second Methodist Episcopal Church, in his address gave an eloquent description of the Battle of Gettysburg and told how, when the fight was raging fiercely and victory trembled in the balance, a small flag was seen to dart towards the rebel lines and almost instantly disappear, the bearer undoubtedly going down under the terrific shower of bullets. The sight of the flag gave the Union forces hope, however, and from that moment they were imbued with fresh courage and ultimately won the victory. After the fight the speaker, who was at that time a chaplain, accompanied by several officers, returned to the spot where the flag had been seen intent on solving the mystery. After removing great heaps of dead bodies, they came across the flag tightly grasped in the lifeless fingers of a newsboy who had followed the army into battle. At this point the speaker drew from his pocket the identical flag, he having treasured it as one of the grandest relics of the war. The description of the battle and the finding of the flag was so pathetic that there was hardly a dry eye in the congregation.

On October 20, 1900, the Post united with Douglass Fowler Post, No. 48, of South Norwalk, in the dedication of a Soldiers' Monument in South Norwalk. The most friendly relations have always existed between the two sister Posts of the town, each taking part in the other's entertainments and public functions. Douglass Fowler Post has attended to the decoration of graves in the southern part of the town on Memorial Day, and Buckingham Post those in the northern part.

The Post has, since organization, had 223 members, representing every branch of the service. It reached its maximum strength of about 150 members in good standing, during the years from 1890 to 1894. Since that period there has been a gradual decline in membership. Many have died, and some have moved away and united with other posts. It numbers but 96 members in good standing at the present time. The Post has had in its membership, besides the two reinstated Past Commanders of Old Post 12, several Past Commanders of other posts, who joined by transfer card. Harry McDonough Post No. 63, of Westport, having become reduced in membership, surrendered its charter January 1, 1905. A number of its members wishing to retain their standing in the order, have since joined and become valued members of Buckingham Post. Among them Past Commanders Edward M. Lees, Charles H. Olmstead, Peter R. Foote, Bradley B. Baker, and William E. Albin, being entitled to seats in the Department Encampment, add strength to the Post in the Department.

In addition, Past Commander M. W. Robinson of Post No. 9, Colchester, Surgeon of the Soldier's Home, Noroton, is now a member of this Post. The oldest member of the Post at the present time is Comrade Joseph P. Crossman, just eighty-two. The youngest member is G. A. Franke, who enlisted in the navy in 1864, at the age of fifteen; he has just entered his sixtieth year.

On June 5, 1901, the Post moved into its present quarters in the Jackson Building on Wall Street, which are very comfortable and convenient, and better suited to the reduced membership.

With no new field for recruits like other organizations, the time is rapidly approaching when the Post must cease to exist, when every comrade will "sleep beneath that low green tent, whose curtain never outward swings."

As this will probably be the last published roster of the Post, what can be more appropriate than to close this sketch with the beautiful words of the Reverend W. C. Richardson in closing his address to the Post on Memorial Day, 1890:

"I see a mighty host, shadowy and dim with silent tread and ghostly march. Away it streams in ceaseless majesty, rising and falling with stately swing, its phantom banners waving in the noiseless breeze, its muskets touched with the light of another world.

"Its ranks fill up from every camping place, each lonely grave and bloody battlefield yields up its own, from each forsaken glade and steril mountain side they come, and, as its rear guard swings this way, you, too, grown old and feeble in your time, fall in and on you move, a mighty host of every age and race, with one inspiring thought, with one majestic motive, that all-absorbing godlike trait—unselfishness—which to-day finds no form more worthily its own than that of the man who wears the blue and bears the badge of the Grand Army on his breast."

BUCKINGHAM POST IN THE SHADOWS OF ST. PAUL'S CHURCH-YARD—MEMORIAL DAY

Graves of Soldiers

DECORATED ON MEMORIAL DAY.

"On fame's eternal camping ground
Their silent tents are spread,
And glory guards with solemn rounds
The bivouac of the dead."

BRIGADIER-GENERAL ORRIS S. FERRY was born in the town of Bethel, Conn., August 15, 1823. A portion of his early years was spent in manual labor in the hat manufactory of his father, but he soon developed such a desire for knowledge and such uncommon indications of intellectual superiority that he laid aside the implements of a trade he was rapidly acquiring, and, at the age of fourteen years, entered upon the necessary studies preparatory to admission to Yale College, from which he graduated at the age of twenty-one. He was admitted to the bar in 1846, and immediately commenced a successful practice in Norwalk. His great ability as an orator naturally took him into politics. He was elected to the State Senate two consecutive terms, and to the 36th Congress in 1859, being a prominent and active member of the Congress in session at the opening of the Rebellion.

Upon the breaking out of the Civil War, all the enthusiasm of his nature was aroused for the preservation of the Union and he entered the Army as Colonel of the 5th Regiment, Connecticut Volunteers. On March 17, 1862, he was commissioned a Brigadier-General of Volunteers by President Lincoln, and served in that capacity in different divisions of the Army until June 15, 1865, near the close of the war, when he resigned and returned to the practice of his profession in Norwalk.

As a General in the Army he performed faithfully and well all the duties assigned to him, which from the high order of his legal and judicial mind were more departmental than in the field.

In 1866, he was elected by the Legislature of Connecticut to the Senate of the United States and was re-elected in 1872. His course in the United States Senate is a record of statesmanship of the highest order; he stood in the front rank of senators as a debater and constitutional lawyer, and won not only the respect of his colleagues, but the respect of his State and the Nation at large for his great ability, honesty of purpose, and sterling moral and religious character.

His last public effort in the Senate was to pronounce an eloquent tribute of respect and affection to the memory of his deceased colleague, Senator Buckingham, which made a deep impression on the Senate and country, at that time. He returned to his family and home in Norwalk, where he died, November 21, 1875, at the age of fifty-two years and three months. His remains are interred in Union Cemetery.

BREVET MAJOR-GENERAL WILLIAM T. CLARK was born in Norwalk, attended the public schools and taught school here for several years; he afterwards went to New York and studied law. He was admitted to the bar in 1854, and the same year went to Davenport, Iowa. He continued the practice of law there until the breaking out of the Rebellion, when he entered the service as Adjutant of the 13th Iowa Regiment. He arose rapidly in rank and was Adjutant General of the Army of the Tennessee all through the Mississippi Campaign, was with Grant before Vicksburg, and with Sherman on the march to the Sea. He was made Chief of Staff to General McPherson and was with the General when killed before Atlanta. At the end of the war General Grant detailed him to command the Corps sent to Mexico to drive out Maximilian. He spent several months in this service and then resigned from the Army and went to Galveston, Texas. He was appointed Post Master of Galveston and organized the First National Bank there. He was subsequently elected a Republican member of Congress from Texas and served two terms. General Clark died in the City of New York, October 12, 1905, at the age of seventy-four and was buried at Arlington, Va.

MAJOR-GENERAL DARIUS N. COUCH was born in the town of Southeast, Putnam County, New York, July 23, 1822. In 1842, he was admitted as a cadet at West Point, whence he graduated in 1846, and was assigned to duty as Second Lieutenant in the Fourth Regiment, United States Artillery, then serving in Mexico. For gallantry at the battle of Buena Vista, he was brevetted First Lieutenant and later on commissioned. He resigned his commission at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., April 30, 1855, and after a brief stay in New York City, engaged in business in Taunton, Mass., having married the daughter of Hon. Samuel L. Croker of that city, Mary Caroline, in August, 1854.

When the war of the Rebellion broke out, Mr. Couch offered his services to Governor Andrews, and was commissioned Colonel of the 7th Massachusetts Regiment. But Colonel Couch who, as a graduate of West Point and the Mexican War, was an accomplished soldier, could not be confined to a single regiment. Promotion was sure to come.

The Colonel of June 15, 1861, held commission as Brigadier-General dated May 17, 1861, and was advanced to Major-General July 4, 1862, afterwards placed in command of the Second Army Corps, Army of the Potomac.

It is recorded in General Walker's history of the Second Army Corps, that in May, 1863, following the disastrous campaign of Chancellorsville, President Lincoln offered the command of the Army of the Potomac to General Couch, but owing to ill health he was compelled to decline a position so arduous and responsible, and suggested the appointment of General Mead, which was soon afterwards made.

According to his own autobiographical sketch he was under fire at Buena Vista, and in the Civil War at Yorktown, Williamsburg, Fair Oaks, Oak Grove, White Oak Swamp, Glendale, Malvern Hill, Second Bull Run, Antietam, Williamsport, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, against Lee in Pennsylvania, Nashville, pursuit of Hood, and against Hoke in North Carolina.

In 1863 General Couch was assigned to Command of the Department of Susquehanna, then becoming the theatre of invasion.

In the Battle of Chancellorsville he was slightly wounded, and in three different battles had horses killed under him.

General Couch settled in Norwalk with his family soon after the war, and at once took an active interest in the social and political life of the town and State, holding local and State offices. It was as Adjutant-General on the Governor's staff he was instrumental in securing and localing the State Armory for the town.

General Couch died in Norwalk, February 12, 1897, at the age of seventy-four years and seven months. His remains were taken to Taunton, Mass., for interment.

BRIGADIER-GENERAL NELSON TAYLOR was born in South Norwalk, June 8, 1821, his parents removing shortly thereafter to New York City. At the beginning of the war with Mexico he joined the Army, August 1, 1846, as Captain of Company E, 1st New York Volunteers, served through the war, and at its close settled in Stockton, California, served as Sheriff of San Joaquin County, and as a Member of the California State Senate. Returning to New York City, he studied law, taking his degree at the New York University, and subsequently at the Harvard Law School in 1860. At the beginning of the Civil War he entered the volunteer service as Colonel of the 72d New York Infantry, and served with distinction in the Peninsular and Virginia Campaigns. In recognition of his services he was appointed

Brigadier-General of Volunteers September 7, 1862. He resigned January 19, 1863, on account of physical disability, resumed practice of law in New York City, and was elected as a Democrat to Congress, serving from December 4, 1865, to March 3, 1867. In 1869 he removed to South Norwalk, where he continued the practice of his profession.

While declining public office, he was an active promoter of all public improvements. General Taylor died in South Norwalk, of pneumonia, January 16, 1894, at the age of seventy-two. His remains rest in Riverside Cemetery, Norwalk.

MOSES ASBURY HILL was born in Sacarappa, Maine, October 9, 1843. He was the son of Rev. Moses Hill and Charlotte Illsley McLellan Hill.

He prepared for college at the High School in Norwalk, where he had resided from 1854, and entered Wesleyan University in the fall of 1860. He was a brilliant student, a splendid athlete and one of the leaders of his class.

When the Rebellion broke out in '61, most of the class volunteered and tendered their services to the government for a three months' enlistment, but on arriving at Hartford found that they would only be accepted for a three years' term.

Hill and a few others accepted the conditions and enlisted as privates in the 4th Connecticut Infantry. On October 4, 1861, he was transferred to the 8th Connecticut Infantry as Sergeant-Major. Later he was made 1st Lieutenant of a Rhode Island Battery and assigned to Staff duty. In that capacity he participated in the Roanoke Island Expedition and personally hauled down the Rebel flag over Fort Fisher when the fort was captured. Upon the recommendation of General John G. Parke, he was appointed Captain and Commissary of subsistence, and assigned to duty as Depot Commissary at Portsmouth, Va., and later as Division Commissary of the 3d Division, 18th Army Corps, serving on the Staffs of General John Gibbon and General W. T. Smith at Bermuda-Hundred and in front of Petersburg, and later on the Staff of General E. O. C. Ord as Corps Commissary of the 24th Army Corps.

After the surrender of Lee's Army at Appomattox, he was transferred to the Military Division of the Gulf and made Inspecting Commissary and attached to the Staff of Major-General Phillip Sheridan.

While in the performance of his duty in the Red River country, he contracted a severe cold on his lungs, from which he never recovered. At the close of the war he was brevetted as Major and Commissary, for faithful service. Resigning, he at once began an heroic struggle to regain the strength which had been broken by the exposures of his army life, residing in the Northwest and traveling in Europe. But the disease had made too much progress for a possible recovery and he returned to his home in Norwalk to die. He passed away July 11, 1867 (two years after the war ended), at the age of twenty-three years and nine months. He belonged to the tenth generation of a family which had been represented in every struggle which this country had made from the foundation of the Colony of Connecticut to the triumphant putting down of the Rebellion.

He brought to the service of his Country a fine education, a keen intellect, an attractive personality, and a magnificent physique, and with brilliant prospects for the future, sacrificed them all for love of Country.

His career was a striking illustration of the oft-repeated saying, that the War of the Rebellion was fought to a successful conclusion by the young men of the Republic.
